Alexandros Massouridis is an insightful and driven architect with a deep knowledge of design process from preliminary and ideas stages to execution and coordination of large scale projects.

He is an RIBA (Royal Institute of British Architects) associate member earning his Graduate and Masters Degree (1999) at the Bartlett School of the Built Environment, UCL in London and immediately became a chartered architect based in Athens, Greece.

He is the co-founder of MT Architects and is currently presiding PMA Architects Ltd. His main area of experience focuses in hospitality projects and high-end residential projects, creating innovative architecture and being in charge of a multitude of local and international collaborations.

Myrto Theodoraki has been a practising architect based in Athens, Greece since finishing her architectural studies in the U.K., by acquiring a BSc in Architectural Studies at the University of Bath (1998) and a Diploma and a Masters Degree at the Bartlett School of the Built Environment, UCL in London (2000)-RIBA Associate Member.

She is the co-founder of MTArchitects focusing her experience into the creative design of projects, interior design and parametric processes. She also has an immense interest in many theoretical fields of architecture, including complex adaptive systems, design optimization techniques and architectural programming implementation. She has initiated a PhD in Architecture and participated in many international conferences and workshops.

Massouridis & Theodoraki Architects have immense experience in the design process and construction supervision of projects covering a wide range of activities, such as Tourist Developments, Housing projects, Industrial and Commercial projects, Educational and Social buildings, as well as Town - Planning and Urban Design projects.

MTArchitects' aim is to provide each client with an integrated design approach to the highest level of architectural service and professional expertise. We work closely with the client and the design team - planners, engineers, special consultants - embracing the project's aim, needs and restrictions. Our main objective is to produce an outstanding result that is exciting, operational, functional, efficient and sustainable.

Continuing a 45-year tradition in architectural design, interior design, and master planning, today, the design office is headed by architects Alexandros Massouridis and Myrto Theodoraki.
